Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

According to Associated Press reports approximately 20,000 Italians are helping Rebel General Franco to exterminate the loyalist Spanish people, and a lesser number of Germans are also enrolled with the rebels. On the loyalist side are arrayed a few thousand Russian communists. Just what the volunteers from Germany and Italy are being paid with would be hard to guess. When the war started the loyalist government had $600,000,000 in gold in the treasury, and of course was able to pay cash for much of its war material and presumably a wage to its soldiers. But Germany, to all practical purposes is bankrupt, Italy is little better off and General Franco notoriously has little money for paying soldiers wages or for purchase of material. As matters stand today, it is a fifty-fifty bet whether rebels or loyalists will win. Some sort of credit or money may have been advanced him by the fascists dictators but apparently it was far short of his need.

The question rises as regards what Italy and Germany may ask in the way of remuneration, if Franco wins, and what they will lose if he is finally defeated. We surmise in event of a rebel victory, that Great Britain will prevent any distribution of spoils in the way of territorial grants to either Germany or Italy, and if the rebellion fails, Germany and Italy will be poorer by whatever sum they risked. It is notable that no democracy has risked anything in the Spanish war. Dictatorships are again proving the most costly form of government. Both Italy and Germany are piling up armaments while the people suffer for lack of necessities of life. Both together, when they have spent their last mark or lira for arms, will have about one-fourth the armament of the United States and Great Britain. Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad.

Hiram Johnson has said something that should stir thought in the brain pan of a moron. He said in the Senate the other day: "The most ominous thing in our national economic life today is the sit-down strike. If the sit-down strike is carried on with the connivance or the sympathy of the public authorities, then the warning signals are out, and down that road lurks a dictatorship." We suspect Hiram has a tummy full of the New Deal.

President Roosevelt is giving the country another "breathing spell" Probably he did not intend to do it, but we are getting it nevertheless. His proposal to place six ringers or "yes men" on the United States Supreme Court has created such a national protest and caused such a tremendous uproar that the reform business in Congress has been practically discontinued until this storm blows over. In the meantime the country's industries are gradually getting back to normal, except in those spots where the communists are permitted to take over industrial plants and hold them for ransome.

Detroit the seat of the most of the sit-down trouble, seems to be the testing ground. A supine governor, taking his cue from Secretary Pinky Perkins, shuffles and hesitates, when resolute action is needed. If the sit-down strike is right, it is also right for any group to move into any home and oust the owner.

This story, probably untrue, is told of a Chrysler sit-downer: A wife toting food to her sit-down husband in the Chrysler plant, complained that the butcher boy, delivering the meat, had refused to leave the house. Meat that formerly cost but 50 cents, he now refused to leave unless paid 75 cents for it. He had sat down in the kitchen and when she left had moved into the parlor and was amusing himself with the radio. The sit-downer jumped to his feet, and declared as he put on his hat: "I'll go home with you and throw that —— —— out of the house." And he did.

However, it is noted that the White House, is now flirting more and more with Mr. Green of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Green has been kind enough to O. K. the court packing plan and there is now a tendency to help Mr. Green keep his union regulars in condition to offset the communistic following of Mr. Lewis. Divide and rule is a good old militay and political adage, and the ascendant star of John L. Lewis was becoming altogether too bright to suit the New Deal.

EASTER SUNRISE SERVICE WILL NOT BE HELD

The Sunrise Easter Service scheduled to take place at sunrise Easter morning at the foot of the cross on the airport in Nevada City has been canceled. Mr. Ed C. Uren, chairman of the committee of arrangements, conferred with other committee members and decided that it would be most inadvisable to have sunrise service due to the snow that is on the ground at the airport. Even if the weather is fair Sunday the ground would be snowy, wet and slushy.

MINERS VOTE TO KEEP MURCHIE MINE OPERATING

Offered a choice of continuing work at the present wage scale or closing the Murchie mine on April 15, the miners employed there on Tuesday voted 3 to 1 to remain at work. The vote stood 132 to 44. As the men came off shift they were handed a ballot which they deposited in a sealed box. When all had voted the result was overwhelmingly in favor of continuing work at the present wage scale.

HIGHGRADING TRIAL SET OVER UNTIL MAY 4

The trial of W. E. Moulton of French Corral and B. W. Hills of Gras Valley on charges of conspiring to violate the Gold Reserves Act of 1934 yesterday was continued until May 4 by Federal District Judge Michael J. Roche in San Francisco.

At the same time Judge Roche refused to sustain a defense demurrer asking for a bill of particulars. He took under consideration a defense motion for a change of venue to Sacramento.

Defense Attorneys Ray Manwell and Ray Coughlan of Sacramento sought change of venue on the ground most witnesses live in the vicinity of Sacramento.

VICTIM OF MINE EXPLOSION DIES

As a result of injuries received. caused by the explosion of a missfire charge of powder in the Lava Cap Monday night, Andrew Howe, 45 years old, passed Wednesday afternoon at the Jones Memorial Hospital. Efforts to locate his family reported to reside in Round Mountain, Nevada, failed.

Dr. W. W. Reed in an effort to save the man's life resorted to blood transfusions.

The accident was witnessed by Albert Handley and Frank Gerome of this city, and the injured man was quickly raised to the surface and sent to the hospital.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Anne Howe, and two children, John and Anne, whom Coroner Jefford has thus far failed to locate.

ELKS TONIGHT TO ELECT OFFICERS

The Nevada City lodge of Elks this evening will elect officers for the ensuing term and initiate two candidates. Two weeks later the new officers will be installed. At this ceremony District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Frank A. Forderhaste of Redding will officiate. This will be occasion of his first official visit to the Nevada City lodge.

EASTER VACATION

Nevada City high school and Washington grammar school are closed today for a short Easter vacation and will reopen Monday. Due to loss of time in the winter months in both schools it was felt Good Friday was the only holiday that could be given.

BILLS TO RAISE COMPENSATION INS. PENDING

By RALPH H. TAYLOR

Unless the State Legislature turns thumbs down on radical changes proposed in the Workmen's Compensation Insurance Act, California farmers will soon be confronted with an increase of from 30 to 40 per cent in their compensation insurance costs!

In many instances, according to the most conservative estimates, the costs would be doubled, not alone for farmers, but for the mining industry, transportation companies and scores of other businesses and industries.

To thousands of small farmers, the new compensation insurance levies would virtually be prohibitive, "upping" farm overhead to such an extent that there would be little or no chance to operate at a profit.

Some 60 or 70 proposed amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Insurance Act are pending before the lawmakers—the great majority calling for sharp increases in awards and other changes which would inevitably bring rate increases.

Heading the list are two bills by Assemblyman Hornblower and Senator Olson, jroviding for drastic increases.

The Hornblower act—A. B. 578, which is reported to have the backing of the State Federation of Labor—provides, briefly, as follows:

1. Eliminates waiting period by making disability payments commence from the date of injury, instead of seven days later. (The effect of this amendment would be to discourage workers from taking reasonable precautions to guard against injury, and to invite chiseling and faked claims.)

2. Requires that two weeks compensation shall be paid in advance, instead of one week.

3. Stipulates that "where an injury causes both temporary and permanent disability, the injured employee shall be entitled to permanent disability payment in addition to any payments of compensation for temporary disability;" allows no credit for "temporary" payments against the permanent award.

4. Raises death benefit from $5000 to $75000; sets forth it shall be at least five times average earnings (as against three times, under present law); provides it shall be in addition to any disability indemnity payments; doubles the minimum figure for estimating average weekly earnings, thereby increasing compensation awards; fixes minimum average annual earnings at $666.-66. instead of $333,33.

5. Provides that all awards for compensation or death benefits shall bear 7 per cent interest until paid; authorizes Industrial Accident Commission to add attorney's fees to the award; declares that where insurance carrier defaults in payments, the employer must pay.

The Olson bill, even more extravagant, increases compensation payments during illness or disability to 75 per cent of average weekly earnings; likewise eliminates 7-day waiting period; extends limitation statute from six months to a year; makes owner or general contractor responsible for compensation liability for his contactors, sub-contractors, or lessees; requires that the state and each county, city, irrigation district and school district, shall insure their workers with the State Compensation Insurance Fund, and grants unlimited jurisdiction in point of time in cases where compensation has once been paid.

The unfairness of the proposals is more clearly apparent in light of the fact that California already has the most liberal compensation insurance benefits in the United States.

Present costs of compensation insurance to California farmers run from $2.26 to $4.17 per $100, with an insured farm payroll totalling more than $57,000,000 annually. Doubling the rate, or nearly doubling it, would be the straw that broke the camel's back, insofar as agriculture is concerned.

Miss Gertrude Schreiber, who is attending college in San Francisco, arrived in Nevada City Wednesday to spend the Easter holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Schreiber.

STORES TO CLOSE FOR GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE

In accordance with past practice, it is announced by Fred E. Conner, president of the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce, all business houses will be asked to close tomorrow, Good Friday, between the hours of 12 o'clock (noon) and 3 o'clock p. m. in order that all those who desire to do so may attend services in church during those hours.

JUDGE MC INTOSH TO PRESIDE HERE

During April Judge Raymond McIntosh of Sierra County will preside in the Nevada County Superior Court while Judge Raglan Tuttle is trying cases in the Los Angeles Superior Court. Judge McIntosh has arranged his own calendar so that he can give his entire time to Nevada County business. He will have one jury trial and three court trials during his stay here.

TWENTY TWO TESTED AT WELL BABY CLINIC

Twenty two babes and pre-school children were examined yesterday by Dr. Emmaline Banks in the "Well Baby Clinic" conducted and sponsored by the Grammar School P. T. A. each month. It is held in the Methodist church parlors where it is comfortably warm and there is plenty of room. Assisting were County Health Nurse Isobel Hefelfinger, Mrs. E. T. Bonner, president of the Washington grammar school P. T. A., Mrs. W. E. Young and Mrs. Edwin Berger.

Some children were found to be greatly in need of remedial care, according to the county health nurse.

POLICE OFFICER NINNIS ALL THE SAME HOUDINI

Albert Richards, brother of Geo. Richards, foreman at the Nugget office, made a business trip to Nevada City yesterday. After closing the door he realized he had locked himself out of his car. He called on his brother a few minutes and borrowed a wrench and long screw driver to take off a door He was about to give up, when Special Officer Chas Ninnis and Sheriff C. H. Tobiassen came along and inquired the trouble. Ninnis stated: "Why I can open that car!" Richards said: "Gee thats good!" In the twinkling of an eye he had the door open.

HYDRAULIC MINERS TO MEET IN GRASS VALLEY

The California Hydraulic Miners association will meet tomorrow afternoon at the Bret Harte Inn. Efforts are being made to clear the way for the erection of a debris dam on the Bear river.

"LUCKY GUYS"

Little ten year old Bill Hatch coming down Broad street in Nevada City with his small red wagon Monday, when he stopped to look into Colleys Confectionery. Glancing up after a quiet survey of the beautiful display of Easter candies, eggs, baskets, rabbits, etc., he drawled, to a bystander: "Say, ice man aren't those fellows that have a candy store lucky guys."

PLAYFUL TERRIER RUNS FINE FOX FUR RAGGED

Kayo, prized English fox terrier of Mrs. Minerva Wright of Main street, is full of mischief and has many amusing experiences. Several days ago while she was out, he pulled her fine fox fur down from where it was hanging, jumped into the middle of her bed and proceeded to have a fierce fight with the imaginary animal. Growling, jumping and dancing frenziedly about he first pulled off a leg, then its tail while shaking it viciously. Upon entering the house Mrs. Wright opened the door to see what he was having such a time about. Tufts of fox hair were all about the bed, and bunches sticking out each side of his mouth like a mustache as he sot up with such a delighted expression on his face. He seemed to almost say, "Didn't I fix him?"

JUDGE DOUBTFUL OF GEOLOGICAL EVIDENCE VALUE

Excerpts from decision of Mr. Justice Eve in the case of the Amalgamated properties of Rhodesia (1913) Limited vs. the Globe and Phoenix Gold Mining Company. Ltd.

Except insofar as sermons are to be extracted from the stones themselves, the prehistoric evidence is wholly oral, and it has been given by geologists of great learning and eminence; men whom I may perhaps be permitted to say if they cannot actually make dry bones live, they have the gift of so unfolding their theories and stating their views as almost to create in their hearers a real affection for acid intrusions and pranophyric porphyrites and an enthusiastic desire to cultivate a closer acquaintance with magmatic intrusions, silicen,sides and a great laccolith shaped bathylith

But for more than one reason I do not think I can avail myself of the prehistoic evidence as a help toward the solution of the problems I have to face.

In the first place these eminent scientists differ not only in the conclusions to which their researches and experience lead them, but they are by no means sure or agreed on any common basis of facts upon which to form their openions, or from which to draw their deductions.

I am not thinking of such insignificant and negligible differences, geologically speaking, as are represented, for example by a discrepancy of one hundred million years, but of assumed physical conditions and data fundamentally affecting the course of subsequent events, such, as for example, as the question whether the relative positions of schist and intrusive are to be attributed to a topsy turvy action of a seismic character, or to the more gradual and less convulsive work of denudation.

Nor is this divergence in view in any sense a matter of surprise, seeing that although as facts to differentiate them from opinions formed after they have been investigated, they are after all, themselves very largely a matter of speculation and matters therefore, upon which independent and equally competent investigators may arrive at very different results.

In the next place geology is not a science which anybody, and least of all such a witness as Professor Gregory, would wish to dogmatize, and his evidence and that of the other geological experts has demonstrated that in many matters relating to the particular area in which this mine is situated, and to this very mine itself, opinions have vascillated and changed within very recet times, and it by no means follows that the views expressed with more or less confidence in the witness box in this case will be as firmly maintained in the course of a few year's time.

Finally I am bound to remember that the question I am considering is one of practical commercial importance affecting the interest of men who are concerned only to know how they may turn their property to profitable use and who are profoundly indifferent to the exact geological era, epoch, period or age in which their particular lode came into existence so long only they can satisfy a mining commissioner that they are working throughout on one and the same lode.

Indeed, except that they exhibit appropriate, or possibly ideal climatic conditions for that destination to which the average gold digger not infrequently consigns objects, animate and inanimate, which have roused his temporary displeasure, I venture to doubt if he ever contemplates these remote ages in which the sullen rock out of which he is hewing, or attempting to hew, his fortune was a molten liquid as receptive of alien and demoralizing ingredients as are other liquids of taday, and I certainly do not believe that the practical and progressive founder of Rhodesia — educationalist though he was—ever intended that the itinerant prospector for gold should load himself not only with his pick and shovel but with a selection culled from the Encyclopedic volumes from which counsel has so liberally quoted—many of which, no doubt owing to their monolithic proportions, have never yet reached the elevation of the bench.

I therefore pass away from the prehistoric evidence with this farewell observation, that if, in this case, there is to be a judicial sacrifice—I am of course speaking only in metaphors—to the geological wolves, I must respectfully leave the victim to be selected from one of the Appellate tribunals.

TAHOE UKIAH ROAD CLEARED

Superintendent Fred Garrison of this division of state highways, opened the Tahoe Ukiah highway from Nevada City to Road U. S. 40 above Emigrant Gap at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

This road has been blocked since about Sunday or the beginning of the last snow storm. Mr. Garrison had three snow plows, equipment and crews employed for 24 hour periods working out of Nevada City. A foreman and crew out of Truckee cleared the road from U. S. 40 into Bear Valley.

Seven feet of new snow fell at the higher elevations along the 29 mile stretch of road.

E. J. Haverstock, U. S. mail carrier between Nevada City and Washington, stated Wednesday evening his road was blocked with snow in the last storm. He drove his tractor to the junction of the Washington and Tahoe Ukiah highway and from there used a sled to carry mail to his machine several miles to the west. He stated four feet of new snow fell on four four feet of well packed old snow at the junction. With the reopening of the Tahoe Ukiah highway he will be able to drive his car to the junction with the mail.

FEBRUARY GAS TAX SLUMPS

SACRAMENTO, March 25.—A decrease in gasoline tax income for the month of February was reported today by the state board of equalization.

Board records showed that the sale of gasoline for February amounted to 115,943,267.3 gallons, on which the state collected a tax totaling $3,443,515.11. This was a decrease of $998,633.15 or 2.78 per cent, as compared with the same month of 1936.

At the same time the February total represented a decrease of 9.79 per cent compared with January of this year, when the income from the tax amounted to $3,817,392.35. Officials attributed the drop to the short month and inclement weather, which kept many motorists off California highways.

A Golden Key

A giant redwood log, thrown across a roadway, symbolizing the last remaining barrier to land travel along the 1000-mile coastline of California—

Two loggers sawing furiously — A shout, a crackling sound, a barrier removed.

And a colorful cavalcade representing all the lands to the north surging out across the Golden Gate on the mightiest suspension span in the world.

Then, on the other side, a cavalcade from the lands to the south, waiting behind two huge golden gates swung across their path.

A signal is given. A golden key is inserted. The gates swing ajar and fall into the sea. The golden key is cast after them into the deep, signifying that here stands a bridge to remain forever open for the commerce of the world.

And there you have it, the official opening of the Golden Gate bridge on May 28, the day after pedestrians have had their run of the structure.

The throngs that come from all over the state, from all over the west, will marvel at this masterpiece of modern engineering skill, and will reflect upon progress, upon the old and the new. They will look out over the bay and see the ferry boats that would have astonished people in Robert Fulton's time. And doubtless many will hope the people of the bay area keep these ferry boats running, not merely for their old picturesqueness, but also in the wisdom of not "burning our bridges" too rapidly behind the dizzying advance of science, and as emergency lifelines as well.

They will reflect that mankind marches on to new conquests over nature, that the bridge which men once said could never be built even now casts its shadow across the waters that surge through the Golden Gate.

They will reflect that another dream the pioneers dreamed has come true in California.—Contributed.

Let 'Em Rant

The Nazis rant in impotent anger because the United States government does not move to silence Hitler's critics. German newspapers work themselves into a high state of frenzy about what awful people Americans are.

America's attitude is pretty well summed up by Stephen Leacock, Canadian author, in a recent article in The Forum, which is being widely reprinted just now. Says Leacock:

"Americans are queer people; they don't give a hang. All the world criticizes them and they don't give a hang. Foreign visitors come and write them up; they don't give a hang.

"They are told that they have no art, no literature, and no soul. They never burge. Moralists cry over them, criminologists dissect them, writers shoot epigrams at them; prophets foretell the end of them; and they never move.

Seventeen brilliant books analyze them every month; they don't read them. The Europeans threaten to unite against them; they don't mind. Equatorial Africa is dead sour on them; they don't even know it.

"The Chinese look on them as full of Oriental cunning; the English accuse them of British stupidity; the Scotch call them close-fisted; the Italians say they are liars; the French think their morals loose; the Bolsheviks accuse them of communism.

"But that's all right. The Americans don't give a hang; don't need to—and never did need to. That is their salvation. —Contributed.

From Riches To Rags

Lest you envy those "lucky" Americans who rode from rags to riches on an Irish sweepstakes ticket last week, remember that money gained thusly is subject to the rule of "easy come, easy go."

An enterprising journalist some months ago tracked down half a dozen winners two years after fortune had showered them with gold. Only one out of the six had kept his wealth and added to it. Two had squandered the cash and were back with their noses on the same grindstone it had lifted them from.

The others were much worse off than they had been before striking it rich. They had ended up not only penniless, but too 'spoiled" by their fling at high living ever to be satisfied with plain hard work again.

Few people hear of the unhappy endings. We read, instead, of fabulous riches falling to someone's lap, and many of us say to ourselves, "just think, that might have happened to me!" We read the joyful exclamations of some 50 winners, but hear nothing of the five and a half million losers.

Several attempts to choke off the sale of sweepstakes tickets in the United States have failed. Laws or no laws, the human urge to seek something for nothing will not be denied.

The fortune hunters don't stop to think that the odds against them, in a sweepstakes such as the last one, are 96,000 to 1. and nothing could make them realize how even winning would hold a fifty-fifty chance of ruining their lives.

Do you envy them?—Contributed.

Capital Business

Compiled by Sacramento Chamber of Commerce

SACRAMENTO, March 25.—"The bureau of reclamation is ready to build right now," said Walker R. Young, engineer in charge of Central Valleys Project, when he revealed yesterday that plans are completed almost to the last blueprint for the gigantic $170,000,000 reclamation and conservation plan that is the largest of its type ever projected.

"All that is holding up actual construction work is millions of dollars in appropriations still being held up in congress.

When the project is finally completed California will have harnessed and put to work the 20 million acre feet of surplus water that now sweeps away in destructive floods. More than 800,000 acres of farmland will be saved from destruction, the salt water encroachment from the bay into the fertile valleys will be permanently blocked annd abundant electrical power at low rates will electrify the valleys

A probable increase in the intercoastal transportation nrates was announced by W. G. Stone, manager of the industrial department of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce. "Cost of operation has increased materially since the end of the maritime strike and as a result the rate level on some commodities will be raised" Stone said. Intercoastal operators will meet in New York sometime between April 15 and May 1, when the rates will be decided upon.

Two outlets are now openn for Sacramento Valley farmers to dispose of their products directly to the consumers. A new farmer's cooperative market is in operation each Wednesday and Saturday at 31st and S streets, and the City of Sacramento has recently completed new buildings at the Farmers Market, Ninth and S streets, which also is open on Wednesday and Saturday.

The assembly public charities and corrections committee has sent to the floor of the assembly with a favorable recommendation AB 1177, which would tranfer the administration of all relief in California to the counties with supervision by the state department of social welfare. Governor Frank F. Merriam told Californit supervisors last week at their annual convention in Sacramento that he would sign the bill if it can be put through the legislature. The supervisors voted approval of the plan.

The bill is expected to come to a vote this week. Under the plan the counties would pay all relief costs up to and including a 5 per cent levy per $100 of assessed valuation. If it were necessary to levy a tax above 5 cents and up to and including 16 cents, the counties and the state would share equally. All costs above a necessary 16 cent levy would be borne by the state.

Duke University of North Carolina has entered 4 boxers in the college national championships to be held at Memorial Auditorium, Sacramento, April 1, 2 and 3. Entries from eigh other Eastern colleges also have been received. Two of them will be defending national titles won in Virginia last year. Reserved seats are sold out already for Saturday night, the finals night, of the tournament. General admission seats are still available, also a few in the reserved section for Thursday afternoon and Thursday and Friday nights.

Employment for 4,000 Sacramento valley men and women, who will receive a total of nearly $365,000 a month, will begin about April 1 with the opening of Sacramento's annual "spinach run," representatives of leading canning firms announced last week.

Sacramento will give the 5-cent parking meters a three month's trial preceding the November election according to a tentative proposal made by the city council. Whether they will remain on the streets will be decided at the polls. President A. J. Affleck of the Sacramento Chamber Commerce, who last year inspected the parking meters at Dallas, Texas. said they are successful there because they clear the streets of traffic and increase the parking turnover three-fold.

HANDSOME WALNUT TREE IS DESTROYED BY SNOW

The Jackson family on lower Boulder street had an unpleasant experience during the last snow storm which demolished an English walnut tree in the back yard of Mrs. J. J. Jackson, Sr. The wet snow packed and froze on the big tree and at first small branches kept falling on the home of Mrs. Jackson, Sr., and then on her son's home, next door. Family members thought at first it was snow falling from the roofs.

Finally Mrs. Jackson, Sr., called to her son and he stepped to the door when a half of the big tree fell over the rear of his house where he stood. It crashed through a window in the kitchen throwing glass all about the room. As Jackson stepped back to inspect damages the other half of the tree uprooted and fell toward little Deer Creek, a total wreck.

The handsome big tree was prized not only for nuts but as a shade over the blue grass plot in the rear where family members and friends gathered on warm summer days.

Just Imagine-a Family of 30 at the Dinner Table!

In 1936 the Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad Company issued payroll checks amounting to $49,776.78. This money went to 37 people—residents of Grass Valley and Nevada City—who buy from the local butcher and baker and pay taxes and live the roles of good citizens.

These 37, receiving wages and salaries from the Nevada County Narrow Gauge, support families and dependents. Verily the "37 at the dinner table" actually far exceeds that number.

The Nevada County Narrow Gauge Railroad Company is proud that it wrote close to fifty thousand dollars in pay-roll checks last year. This, it is believed, ranks the railroad in first place in wages paid in local industry, with exception of the mines.

A fine example of the art of plastering is shown in the work being done by Contractor John Perry of Stockton on the Nevada County Court House The front of the building and the entrance lobby are particularly fine work.

And what a great convenience the new elevator at the Court House is going to be. We do not think that the steps are going to show much wear after the "lift" is opened to the public for use.

With the approach of spring we are glad to announce that we were fortunate to be able to purchase a lot of REDWOOD garden furniture, chairs, tables, rockers, and benches, etc, at a price that will enable us to retail these articles at less than the former wholesale price. We have some of these articles nailed up so you may see them DON'T OVERLOOK THIS SALE.

Our display of Celotex in our remodeled office and salesrooms is attracting a lot of attention and has given several of our customers ideas for their homes. You may save money by seeing these rooms while planning your building.

DRUNKENNESS ALLEGED PENSION WITHDRAWN

At the last session of the supervisors of Nevada county they withdrew the pension fund of Frank Thomason, river miner, and two or three others upon the charge they wasted their old age pension fund in drunkenness.

Thomason took his case before the State Welfare Board in Sacramento, refusing to go to the county hospital and stating he would starve first. The others were sent to the county hospital.

The case has not been settled as the supervisors turned the matter over to the attorney general for decision. It is felt that if he receives his money and gets drunk again he will be locked up and punished for the offense.

PARKING METERS HELD ILLEGAL

Illegality of parking meters has been affirmed by the Supreme Court of Alabama on three main points of law in a recent decision, reports the California State Automobile Association. The motorists organization is opposing efforts of meter manufacturers to introduce the meters in California cities. Commenting on the Alabama decision, an association statement declares it to be "the most significant and far reaching development since the advent of the controversial parking meter plan."

The case decided in Alabama was an action brought by the owner of business property in Birmingham for an injunction to restrain the city from erecting and maintaining parking meters in front of the premises. The Circuit Court held that the city had no legal right to place ad operate the meters. On appeal by the city to the Supreme Court the lower court decision was upheld.

CAMPTONVILLE

CAMPTONVILLE. March 25.—Ralph Gleason spent two days this week repairing the lines of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company in this section, this last snow did more damage to local lines than the heavy snow of two months ago.

E. A. Boehme was in town Friday from Marysville and took his horse away which he kept here this winter.

A youthful junk dealer came to town this week, and while it was snowing gathered up a truck load of old brass fixtures and aluminum kettles which had collected in the cellars and attics for the past few years

The forest service have received 18 tons of cement along with two truckloads of red brick in storage for future building activities in the Tahoe National Forest.

Quite some storm took place here this week, there being 14 inches of new snow falling Thursday morning. It appeared to be a freak storm as it was stated that only five inches fell at Downieville a higher elevation at the same time.

A. W. Chapman motored to Nevada City Sunday to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Grace Peterson.

The following were among those confined with flu and colds during the past few days. Mrs. Richard R. Pfiffer, Miss Lesta H. Joubert and the six little girls of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Espinosa.

The aspect of winter took place again Sunday as a heavy snow came down all day, adding several new inches to that which fell Friday. It is estimated that the roads north of here up to the Mountain House ridge will be later opening up than for many years. Snow is of great depth in that region.

Proof of last week's statement: The Shamrock is not a native plant of Ireland. There is no plant known as shamrock which is peculiar to Ireland. White Clover, known in various sections of Ireland as Shamrock, grows abundantly in the United States. The name of Sharrock is most commonly given to one of the hop clovers widely diffused in Ireland, but not peculiar only to it. Handy Book of Curious Information—by W. S. Walsh, page 793.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

STUDENTS WIN TYPING HONORS

Each month, the Gregg Publishing company, sponsors a competent typing contest for high school students. The winners receive certificates and pins for their respective rates. For certificates, the student must have a net rate, this is the rate after substracting errors, of 30 or 40. For a gold pin with the initials TC on it, the student must type 50 or 60 net. So far none in the high school have typed 60 net but there are many 50 net pins for this month. The honors for March are as follows: 50 net, Amy Lou McCraney, Vernie Deschwanden, Veronica Davies and Margaret Burgan of the typing I class and Alice Graham of the typing I class. This is an usual rate for a typing I student. The 40 net certificate was made by Bill Elkus, typing I student. The 30 net certificates were made by: Harleth Brock, Anita Lako, Ida Pratti, Jim Materley, Wylie King, and Mary Lou Draper. In February pins were won by Catherine Stephens and Margaret Stevens. Only five errors are allowed on the contest for ten minutes.

STUDENTS IN SPEAKING CONTEST

Early in April the students of the Nevada City high school, will have a chance to uphold the honor of the school in the Crusaders contest of California. Each year this contest is sponsored by the Crusaders of California to encaurage public speaking.

Each school selects a candidate to represent their school in the county championship contest. The winner of this then enters the regional contest and from this the lucky ones speak at the semi-finals and finals in San Francisco in the latter part of April. The winner of the contest will receive as a reward a free two-week trip to Hawaii and will be able to take with him one adult with expenses paid. Other prizes are offered. Nevada City will choose its representative next week. The following have entered: Mary Martz of the English III class; and Mary Lou Draper and Fred Garrison of the oral English class.

IMPROVED EYE TESTS FOR AUTO DRIVERS

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 25.—Changes in the procedure of giving eye tests to applicants for drivers and chauffeurs licenses, expected to be a major accident reduction factor, have been suggested by a series of scientific tests made by the Department of Motor Vehicles during the last nine months, Ray Ingels, director, said today.

One of the most important indications is the necessity for examining each eye individually, he said, as present tests make no provision for testing eyes separately.

Analyzation of tests given to nearly 400 persons, including those involved in fatal accidents, accident "repeaters," and those cited for dangerous driving practices, showed that approximately twenty five per cent had defective vision in one eye, but with both eyes together were able to pass the present tests.

"To compare the records of good drivers with poor drivers," Ingels said, "we tested one group of seventy six chauffeurs for a company, which has a better than average safety record. We found only two cases of individual eye failures. These two failures had been involved in nine accidents, while the average for the fleet was approximately one half accident per man.
